

FIRST BLOOD IS SHED IN MEXICAN REVOLUTION

HOOVER MADE EARLY START ON HIS WORK

Sends Cabinet Nominations to Senate; All Confirmed

BULLETIN
Washington, March 5—(AP)—The Senate today ordered an investigation of the right of Andrew Mellon to continue as Secretary of Treasury and of his right to hold office under the law forbidding the Treasury head to be interested in business.
Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, proposed the resolution of investigation after President Hoover decided to keep Mr. Mellon and James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, in his Cabinet without re-nomination. The resolution was approved without a record vote.
With the declaration that "every one knows Mr. Mellon is all right Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, intimate friend of the Treasury head, gave his consent to the investigation asked by McKellar.
The special session called to confirm the new members of the Cabinet adjourned sine die today at 1:35 p. m.

Washington, March 5—(AP)—The eight new members selected by Herbert Hoover for his Cabinet were confirmed today by the Senate within a few minutes after the President had forwarded their nominations.
The nominations, which were delivered to the Senate almost at the hour it met, follow:
Henry L. Stimson of New York, Secretary of State.
James W. Good of Iowa, Secretary of War.
William D. Mitchell of Minnesota, Attorney General.
Walter F. Brown of Ohio, Postmaster General.
Charles Francis Adams, Massachusetts, Secretary of Navy.
Ray Lyman Wilbur of California, Secretary of Interior.
Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, Secretary of Agriculture.
Robert P. Lamont of Illinois, Secretary of Commerce.

Made Early Start
The President made an early start on his first full day as Chief Executive, arriving at his office at 8:55 a. m., ahead of nearly all of the members of his staff and the White House force.
He switched on the electric lights to banish the murky gloom caused by lowering clouds outside and plunged immediately into work. His morning was free of formal engagements so that he might be uninterrupted as he examined a mass of data which had been prepared for him.
Mr. Hoover arose at his usual hour, 7 a. m., and had breakfast with Mrs. Hoover and members of the family. The menu consisted of grapefruit, bacon and eggs, toast and coffee, which is standard with the President.

The Chief Executive and the First Lady are occupying the presidential suite used by Presidents Coolidge, Harding, Wilson, Taft and Roosevelt. It consists of two large bedrooms with a dressing room and sitting room and is located in the southwest corner of the building.

Children With Them
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., and their children, Peggy Ann and Herbert III, have their suite in the northwest corner of the mansion. They will remain at the White House only a few weeks, returning then to their home in California.
Mrs. Mary Leavitt of Long Beach, Calif., sister of Mr. Hoover, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Requa of San Francisco, are guests at the White House for a week or more. Mrs. Jean H. Large of Palo Alto, California, sister of Mrs. Hoover, and W. D. Henry, of North Dakota, uncle of the First Lady, remained overnight at the S Street home, which will be occupied by Senator Walcott of Connecticut about April 1.

While many matters of major policy soon will press upon the new Chief Executive, his immediate concern is that of getting his own Cabinet into office so that he can have a smooth functioning machine at the earliest possible time.
Two Heads Remain
Two departments, the Treasury and Labor, are going ahead under the men who have conducted them for eight years—Andrew W. Mellon and James J. Davis. The President has decided against sending their names to the Senate as there is no requirement that he do so since their nominations were confirmed at the time of their original appointments.
The nominations of the other eight men had been prepared for.

IOWA ROAD BOND ACT IS INVALID COURT DECIDES

100 Million Dollar Issue, Approved by Voters, Unconstitutional

Des Moines, Ia., March 5—(AP)—The $100,000,000 state bond act to complete the state's primary road system in six years was held unconstitutional today by the Iowa Supreme Court. The decision was unanimous on the part of the full bench, comprising seven members.
Action of the high court reverses a decision of the Polk County District Court which dismissed complainants' petition for an injunction restraining the state Executive Council from issuing any bonds under the act.
The measure was virtually the sole product of the extra session of the 42nd Iowa General Assembly last year. Subsequently the measure was approved by the people in the general election in November.
No bonds actually had been issued under the act, but the state Executive Council had November 30, last, adopted a resolution calling for issuance of approximately $17,000,000 in bonds as an initial installment for the purpose of the court test, also arranged for by the act.

COOLIDGES ARE BACK IN PRIVATE LIFE THEY LOVE

Arrived in Northampton, Mass., at an Early Hour this Morn

Northampton, Mass., Mar. 5—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth President of the United States, came home today eager to embark once more upon the quiet and homely life that was his before the nation beckoned him to Washington, eight years ago.
With him was Mrs. Coolidge, seemingly as thankful as her husband that the responsibilities of state had at last been transferred to other shoulders.
With them, too, however, came a reminder that not as speedily as they might have wished, was the public's interest in their activities to subside, for the two-car special train which steamed into the railroad station here this morning, one car was filled with newspapermen and on the platform at least 30 more reporters and photographers lay in wait.
Return in Downpour
The journey from the tumultuous crowds of Washington to the peace and quiet of Northampton was accomplished through an almost steady downpour. A guard of six state police men took up posts about the train shed to await the hour when a committee headed by Mayor Jesse A. G. Andre would welcome back to private life the city's most distinguished citizen. Mr. Coolidge expressed a desire that a noisy greeting be avoided because of the condition of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge, who has been ill at the Dickinson hospital for more than a year.
At the Massasoit street rented home Mrs. Alice Reckahn, housekeeper, or 22 years, awaited the Coolidges with excitement. The house was in apple pie condition.

TOO MUCH OF IT

Mr. Schwartz said that the Kline store specializes in style merchandise and has developed a reputation for always being first with the new.
The Kline store features only first quality merchandise; no sub-standard or seconds are handled. Mr. Schwartz also advised that Kline's policy is to sell for cash so that they can eliminate all unnecessary expenses so as to be able to sell for the lowest price possible.

Frustrate Attempt to Rob Mendota Oil Station Last Night

An attempt to rob a number of filling stations in Mendota last evening is believed to have been frustrated when the band of robbers attempted their first job. A large mud splattered sedan in which were several rough-looking young men, parked in a shadowed part of the east section of the city, was discovered by a member of the city council who was returning home from the regular weekly council meeting. Becoming suspicious, he hurried to a neighboring house and telephoned the police. Upon their arrival, the officers discovered that a window of the filling station had been broken but entrance had not been gained. The local police were notified about midnight, it being believed that the bandit car may have been driven north on route 2 after the bandits had been frightened away from the scene.

$9,000 PAYROLL THIEVES' LOOT IN SAINT LOUIS

Escaped in Automobile; Harrisburg P. O. is Robbed of $68.61

St. Louis, March 5—(AP)—Two men held up the Proctor & Gamble Company here today and escaped in an automobile with a $9000 payroll.
The two men strode into the company's office at Second street and East Grand Avenue about 10 a. m., passed fifteen clerks at their desks and entered the private office of Charles F. Fleish, paymaster.
Fleish and a young woman clerk were putting money in pay envelopes when they glanced up and saw the robbers with drawn pistols before them. One of the men tossed a cloth sack on Fleish's desk. "Put it all in here," he ordered.
While Fleish complied the second robber walked to a corner of the room and raised a window. The other snatched the sack of money and both jumped through the window to the ground a few feet below. They ran to an automobile in which, according to one witness a third man was waiting.

Schutte and Theobald were left unharmed in the abandoned car.

Offers $100 Reward for Thieves Arrest

Charleston, Ill., March 5—(AP)—A $100 reward is being offered for the arrest of a thief who stole a car in Charleston, which reached its height when thieves broke ten windows and destroyed much property in the Charleston high school, after failing to break the vault, Saturday night, today resulted in the offering a $100 reward for information leading to their arrest and conviction.
Chief of Police Sniffer advised the school board to offer a reward, saying that "any crook in Charleston would sell his mother for that much." A list of which indicates what the Chief thinks of Charleston crooks.

BACK BROKEN IN ACCIDENT AT IDLEWOOD

Davenport Man Will Recover from Effects of Injury

Charles Green of 2120 1/2 East Eleventh street, Davenport, Iowa, is in the Sterling public hospital with a broken back, and George Montague of 320 East Thirteenth street and Bob Wilkinson of 2721 1/2 Rockingham Road, also of Davenport, escaped with minor cuts and bruises, as the result of an automobile accident at the steel mill just west of I-Del-Wood on the Lincoln highway about 6 o'clock Saturday evening. Green is expected to recover.
The three young men were traveling about 35 miles an hour, in a Master Six Buick roadster driven by Wilkinson, and were en route from Davenport to Chicago. The pavement is clear in most places but in the deep cut in the heavy wooded section west of I-Del-Wood there are still ice ruts. The car struck the side of one of these ruts near the top of the hill, skidded and turned turtle and slid the rest of the distance, perhaps a hundred feet or more on the top and landed against the bridge abutment at the bottom of the hill.

NAMES OF THREE ALLEGED GUNMEN ARE MADE PUBLIC

Prosecutors Think They Know "Choppers" in Chicago Massacre

Chicago, Mar. 5—(AP)—The names of three men who the State's Attorney believes lingered in the machine guns that slew seven gangsters February 14 were made public today. Joe Lolorio, whose brother, Pasquino, met a gang death January 6, was named as one of the actual executioners.
Frederick R. Burke, alias Thomas A. Camp, alias Joseph P. Lewis, long hunted as a bank robber, and James Ray of St. Louis were the other "choppers," as gang argot describes machine gunners.
Burke and Ray, according to David Stansbury, who is directing the State's Attorney's independent investigation, were disguised as police officers. Besides Lolorio, Burke and Ray there were two others who entered the North Clark Street garage and participated in the actual massacre.
Jack McGurn, who has been arrested and booked on murder charges, was not one of the killers, as Stansbury reconstructs the crime, though he may have been active in its planning.
Was Given "Honor"
Lolorio was given the "honor" of handing a machine gun against the George (Bugs) Moran gangsters so that he might evade the death of his brother whose slayers were believed to have been Moran men.
Burke's description has been on police lists throughout the country ever since the robbery of a Louisville, Ky., bank in 1925.
Assistant State's Attorney Stansbury said he had definitely ascertained that the slayers were paid $10,000 each.
Efforts to find Lolorio have been fruitless. His wife is ill in a hospital, but he has not been there nor attempted to communicate with her in two weeks, police said.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

THE BOSTON MASSACRE

A bright moon was shining on a fresh blanket of snow in Boston 159 years ago this evening, so that a disturbance as conspicuous as the "Boston massacre" should have been clearly visible to everyone in the neighborhood. For some reason, however, practically all the witnesses described it differently.
To some it was a brawl between a few British soldiers and a group of leekling Boston vagabonds. To others it was a cold-blooded massacre of respectable citizens by a regiment of conningtower Redcoats.
At all events, the affair was of sufficient importance to hasten the Revolution. It came as a climax to the lodging of two regiments of British troops in Boston. Their presence in the city was offensive to the majority of the citizenry and, undoubtedly, the soldiers were heckled occasionally. Following the "massacre," which resulted in the killing of three persons and the wounding of eight others, the troops were removed, largely due to the efforts of Samuel Adams.

Of those killed, only one, Crispus Attucks, a mulatto, had taken any part in the disturbance which preceded the firing.

GOVT. READY TO FIGHT FOR ITS EXISTENCE

Fighting Reported in Five States Today With Casualties

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
First bloodshed in the Mexican revolution was reported today in five different states as the government and revolutionists settled down to what appeared a life and death struggle for supremacy.
Capture of Monterey, strategic railway center in the state of Nuevo Leon, was claimed by the revolutionary leaders.
Loyal federal troops, clashed with rebels in the state of Vera Cruz and claimed victory, while the insurgents claimed a victory at Monterey after a battle in which there were heavy casualties.
Coahuila, Sonora and Sinaloa also reported fighting.
The central government made wide plans for action on two fronts, the north and south.
Former President Coles, as Commander-in-Chief of all government troops, will conduct the campaign in Sonora, while General Andrew Almazan will concentrate on the south. Already 8,000 of his troops are on the march to Vera Cruz.
Opposing these two leaders will be General Gonzalo Escobar of the state of Coahuila who has been made Commander-in-Chief of the insurgent forces.

For the first time, the long ending religious question made its appearance with the promulgation of a manifesto of Governor Pantoja to Tepic of Sonora proclaiming religious freedom. This was followed by preparation to reopen Catholic cathedrals in Sonora closed since 1926.

Tepic's manifesto included a call to arms in defense of the revolutionary movement. Heavy troop movements were reported out of Mexico City where perfect order was reported.

Three important figures, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, Aaron Saenz and Jose Vasconcelos, all prominent in Mexican politics are supporting the government.
Ambassador Morrow, who has been following the situation closely, made it plain he would continue to deal only with the recognized government at Mexico City.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, on whose damaged plane repairs are being made, hoped to be able to leave for the United States shortly. He still planned to pilot the plane which will open the Brownsville-Mexico City air mail.

BULLETIN

Monterey, Nuevo Leon, Mexico, March 5—(AP)—General J. G. Escobar, Commander-in-Chief of the revolutionary movement in northern Mexico, issued the following statement: "The Associated Press this morning."

"I am pleased to inform you that after ten hours of combat this city was taken by our troops who fought valiantly as never before.

"We took from the enemy 570 enlisted men, three generals and 78 officers. The enemy suffered considerable losses in killed.

"General Lurragia, commanding officer, was killed.

"We captured horses, saddles, 1,000 rifles, 12 machine guns and other war material.

"All prisoners lives have been spared and they will be treated with all consideration.

(Signed) "General of Division, J. G. Escobar, Commander in Chief of Army."

BULLETIN

El Paso, Tex., Mar. 5—(AP)—El Continental, Spanish language newspaper here, said Enrique Likens, Spanish Consul General, was advised early today by President Emilio Portes Gil that General Jesus Magis Aguirre, commander of rebel troops in the state of Vera Cruz, had evacuated several cities occupied since Sunday and retreated to Vera Cruz city under attack of federal soldiers.

NAME REBEL CHIEF

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Mar. 5—(AP)—General Gonzalo Escobar, General of Division at Torreon, Coahuila, was named as chief of the revolution against the Mexican government in a statement by General Jesus Aguirre today.

Wall Street

New York, Mar. 5—(AP)—Further selling developed at the opening of today's stock market. Radio (old stock) broke 8 1/2 points to 38 1/2, as contrasted with last week's high of 41 1/2. National Power & Light and National Bellas Hess each dropped 2 1/2 points and initial losses of a point or so were registered by Radio (new) International Telephone, American Can and American & Foreign Power. Anaconda opened with a block of 15,000 shares up 1 1/2, and Kennecott opened 1 1/2 points higher. Erie Railroad common touched a new 1929 high.

The decrease of $56,600,000 in Stock Exchange member loans was about in line with Wall Street's expectations, corresponding closely to the Federal Reserve figures for the same period, and was without influence as a market factor.

Wright Aeronautical broke 8 points, National Cash Register dropped 2 1/2, Union Carbide 2, and U. S. Steel common. Allied Chemical, Sears Roebuck, Dupont and Electric Auto Lite yielded a point or more.

Coppers were in fairly brisk demand on predictions of further increases in metal prices.

Good buying support was supplied for Curtiss Aeroplane, New York Central, Canadian Pacific, and General Electric, all of which recorded early gains.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with Sterling Cables unchanged at $4.85 7/32.

He also did not know whether the transfer order had been carried out.

NEARER COURT TRIALS
Chester, Ill., March 5—(AP)—Warden F. R. Woelfle of the Southern Illinois Penitentiary declined to deny or confirm reports that the chief reason for transfer of Art Newman, former Birger lieutenant, to Joliet prison was to protect him from revenge of fellow convicts.

Warden Woelfle pointed out, however, that in Joliet Newman would be nearer to places where he is wanted to appear as a witness. Newman now is in custody of the Williamson County Sheriff on a writ requiring his presence as a witness.

It is known that Newman was carefully guarded when he and other Birger gangsters were in custody of the United States Marshal at East St. Louis recently in the trial of Arlie Boswell, former Williamson county State's Attorney, and others.

It was feared then that some of his fellow gangsters might attempt to harm him because of testimony he had given against them.

ILLINOIS LEADS EVERY STATE IN INAUGURAL FETE

Gov. Emmerson is First to Greet Coolidge and Hoover

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 5—(AP)—In the solemn pride of a job well done, Illinois' history-making delegation to the inaugural ceremonies for Herbert Hoover was speeding back today to its home in the prairies.

Behind it lay memory of three days and nights that scintillated with the social and ceremonial deportment of Governor Louis L. Emmerson and his staff. Behind him lay the memory of almost 400 other citizens joining unofficially in honor of new Chief Executive.

The delegation's activities were climaxed by Illinois' 10 car unit in the inaugural parade. Governor Emmerson twice led state officials in greeting a President. He was the first to take the hand of President Coolidge in farewell and first to grasp the hand of President Hoover in welcome.

The last of a long list of official appearances came Monday evening when the Governor and party of fifteen, escorted by his military staff in full dress uniform, attended the inaugural charity ball. Into the gaiety and riot of color, the Governor's party was ushered with the flag of Illinois at its head. Each member was officially presented.

Participation at the ball was preceded by a dinner given for the Governor and his staff by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormack, Representative-at-Large from Illinois.

2,000 at Reception
The largest purely Illinois affair was the reception by the Illinois Society of Washington for the official delegation and all inaugural visitors from Illinois. More than 2,000 attended.

There was continual round of teas and receptions for individual groups, and scores made trips to historic spots including Mount Vernon and Arlington National Cemetery. Former Illinoisans, now connected with business and official life of Washington, placed more than 50 motor cars at the disposal of the visitors.

Entraining independent of the 300 who came to the inaugural on three special trains from Chicago, the official delegation left shortly after midnight on the "Governor's Special," a 9-car train that was scheduled to reach Springfield at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

A group including Mr. and Mrs. Atin S. George of Springfield; Senator George M. Reynolds of Utica; Representative and Mrs. William H. Jackson of Toulon; Administrative Auditor and Mrs. William H. Jackson of Mt. Vernon; and Hon. and Mrs. Cornelius J. Doyle of Springfield, went to New York for a brief business and social visit before returning to their homes.

Conferences with the new Cabinet officers are to be initiated almost immediately by the President to select successors to the dozen or more Assistant Secretaries who have tendered their resignations with the purpose of returning to private business.

Although many of the Ambassadors and Ministers have tendered their resignations, the diplomatic corps is likely to remain in status quo until the arrival here of Mr. Stimson.

A third Secretary to the President also is to be chosen, but this appointment probably will be deferred for several weeks.

This Secretary will be the liaison officer between the Chief Executive and the independent agencies of the government, such as the Veterans' Bureau and the Shipping Board.

ON THE COLD HILLSIDE

I walked alone where once I walked with you.
The privet hedge was silvered o'er with moonlight and the primrose lay blanched by the rising moon.

I heard your step fall lightly beside mine,
I felt your finger lightly clasp my wrist,
Lightly your breathing sipped the evening air.

We wandered mute down the hushed woodland ride,
And where the copse runs out on to the down
I saw a dog-fog drinking, and stood still,
With finger raised. Three times he barked to the moon,
Then snuffed the air and knew us and was gone.

Smiling, I turned to you, so that our eyes
Might share the secret. But I was alone;
I was alone, smiling upon thin air,
The shadow of a beech fell on the path.

I heard the leaves sigh and I called your name,
And the cries echoed back to me from the hill.

I walked alone where once I walked with you.
—George Rylands.

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Stewed rhubarb, crisp broiled bacon, shirred eggs, graham muffins, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Cream of celery soup, croutons, stuffed apple salad, rice and fruit pudding, lemonade.

DINNER—Casserole of round steak and onions, rice potatoes, jellyed cabbage and pepper salad, old-fashioned bread pudding, milk, coffee.

No cereal is suggested in the breakfast menu but the meal is well balanced and nourishing. Children under eight years of age should have a well-cooked cereal with plenty of cream regularly for breakfast but adults and older children need a change.

Rice and Fruit Pudding
One-half cup rice, 1/2 cup chopped dates, 1/2 cup chopped figs, 3/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 1/4 cup cold water, 1-3 cup orange juice, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 tablespoon preserved ginger syrup, 1 cup whipping cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.
Cook rice in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and add at once sugar, dates and figs. Mix thoroughly. Soften gelatin in cold water for ten minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Add orange and lemon juices and ginger syrup. Whip cream until firm and beat in gelatin mixture. Add to rice and beat mixture. Stir until mixture begins to set. Turn into molds and let stand until chilled and firm. Unmold and serve with minced preserved ginger sprinkled over top. (Copyright, 1929, NEA Service Inc.)

Community Club of Bradford Town Met

The Bradford Community Club met in the Hark school Monday evening. During the business meeting it was decided to change the duties of the floral committee as follows: Flowers will only be sent to members or friends in case of actual bereavement, cards or other remembrances to be sent those who are sick.

After the business was disposed of the following program was enjoyed: Saxophone and piano duet by Sarah Degner and Faith Dishong. Scotch jokes by Vernon Schnell. Reading, "Spelling School," by Harry Wendall.

Reading, "An Old Valentine," by George Robinson.

Old time dance music by Charles Robinson and Nell Butler.

The next meeting will be held in the Woodman hall at Lee Center on March 18, when a radio program will be presented by the program committee.

It is regretted very much by the entire club that it is necessary to rent a hall outside of the township in order to accommodate the membership of the club, especially is this true there as there is a vacant building located in the center of the township that might be used for a meeting place if it were not a misunderstanding by those in charge.

CANDLELIGHTERS OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Candlelighters Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. R. S. Farrand, 206 Seventh street. Mrs. William Rhodes, Miss Cora Persons, Mrs. William Lee and Mrs. J. Mc-Bride will be the assisting hostesses.

National Business Women's Week Gets Gov's. Endorsement

Springfield, Ill., March 5.—(AP)—Tribute to the accomplishments of the business women of today was paid here today by Governor Louis L. Emmerson in his endorsement of the Illinois observance of National Business Women's week, March 10 to 18.

Addressed to Mrs. Erma Templeman, president of Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, the governor's endorsement was as follows:

"It is with pleasure that I endorse the observance of National Business Women's Week, March 10 to 18. Such an observance as is planned by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, representing more than fifty-two thousand members, is a fitting memorial to the achievements of the pioneer women of business as well as testimonial of the accomplishments of the business women of today.

"Women are not only holding positions in business requiring the highest intelligence and executive ability but also are filling positions in government of the greatest trust and responsibility.

"More and more their influence is being felt in our National Congress and our state Legislatures. Some have served their states as governors. Others have been elevated to the highest state judicial positions. In industry, in science, in government, women have achieved signal success and I therefore deem it a privilege to lend my endorsement to the observance of National Business Women's Week and to wish it the greatest success."

Governor Emmerson is the second to endorse the week, following endorsement by Governor Byrd of Virginia.

Fifty-five clubs of business and professional women are active in Illinois. Mrs. Templeman said in outlining the extent of the observance in this state. Within the week meetings of the clubs with other civic organizations in their own cities, will popularize the work and ideals of the federation.

Mrs. Templeman will speak at five community meetings that week, Monday evening at Woodriver; Tuesday noon at Alton; Thursday at Downers Grove, Friday at Bloomington and Saturday at a banquet with all other civic clubs here. An then on Monday following she will speak at a meeting of the Evanston Chamber of Commerce.

Various Suit Forms Advanced for Spring

BY DIANA MERWIN

(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
Paris.—(AP)—Materials and forms of spring suits will be widely varied. Tailored tweed ensembles of last season will continue to be worn.

More elaborate versions if the suit form are also being shown, ranging from satin two piece to printed crepe de chine two and three piece costumes.

Tweed suits are partial to brown and white and blue and white mixtures. The newest of them have tuck-in, or stimulated tuck-in blouses of white crepe de chine or natural silks like shantung and tussore.

Sometimes the blouses are sleeveless. Most of them have some form of collar, with the round turn-over, which fits the base of the neck closely, favored above others. Picquet vests and collars and cuffs are shown by many designers both for wear on suits and tailored dresses of light or dark colors.

Afternoon suits, which include the satin and printed crepe de chine models favor black and white combinations.

Jackets of such suits are short and usually of cardigan form over one

Indian Flapper Has Pounds Glass Beads

Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—White two and a half yards of material will make a sports dress for the average white maid 28 yards are required for the dress of the Seminole Indian girl who lives near her fashionable white sister here.

The Seminole maiden's skirt measures seven yards around and she often uses her last year's dress for a petticoat. The Indian girl, too, goes the Palm Beach social leader one better when it comes to galaxy of color. Bits of calico are patiently sewed together in intricate patterns and bizarre color combinations to rival the best modernistic designers.

No dowager in the opera box ever wore more jewelry than the Seminole girl does beads. Beads are her weakness. Her neck is encircled by row upon row of the brightly colored strings. Many a Seminole girl of 18 has 80 yards of beads around her neck and often they weigh as much as 30 pounds. The beads are accumulated from boy infancy and finally are buried with her.

The human body and human mind are peculiar things. They do not wear out with use, but with abuse—and one of the most pernicious forms of abuse is idleness.

A body will rust out and a mind will rust out, much more easily than they will wear out. Too much work is bad, but too little is worse. This goes for children, too, although in their case we must class work and play together under the head of "activity." Play is Nature's way of developing every mental and physical process a child possesses. If he spends hours aimlessly idle he will become a dullard.

Don't Overdo Reading

Reading is excellent, but there is one trouble with too much time spent on books. A child who reads constantly is living vicariously—picking up impressions through the experiences of others, either in fact or fiction. He is not coming into first-hand contact with life—not getting his knowledge and impressions from actual experiences of his own. Reading should never monopolize a child's time to the exclusion of other things. He should read, of course, not only for the knowledge gained but to exercise that necessary and wholesome thing called his imagination. But he must do other things too. He should have work to do, certain duties every day that he must feel absolutely responsible for; but it should not tax his mind too much nor take all of his time out of school.

The greatest harm we can do children is to allow them to be habitually idle.

Encourage Activity

They should be mentally or physically active, or better still, both, most of their waking hours. Little children, of course, must have intervals for sleep and rest—and for that matter, older children should rest, too, for a short time through the day the length of time depending on their age, strength and health.

But children should be busy—not driven, please remember, nor run to death, nor imposed upon but busy!

So many parents think play time is waste time. What a fallacy! A little of everything and not too much of anything makes the good, all-around boy or girl.

THE NEW HOWARD PROPOSAL.

Sir Esme Howard's proposal for further conferences between Great Britain and the United States relative to the limitation of naval armaments has been greeted by some slight skepticism in Washington, according to dispatches.

There are those, it seems, who hold that the whole thing is merely a move to strengthen the English Conservative party in the coming British elections. Present indications are that the party will be fiercely attacked by Laborites and Liberals for "bungling" this important matter; if a new conference can be arranged, such attacks will lose their force.

To our way of thinking this isn't very important, even if true. Suppose the Baldwin government is trying to save its face; what of it? The important thing is for the two nations to reach some kind of amicable agreement that will end the present suspicion and quiet these constant mutterings about war. If that can be done, we should worry about the British cabinet's motives.

ENJOYING APPENDICITIS.

Ordinarily, one doesn't welcome a major operation with great eagerness. But a Michigan man did recently—was so happy about it, in fact, that the occasion of the operation will be a bright spot in his memory for years to come.

This man was a life term convict in the Michigan prison at Marquette. He was in solitary confinement for killing a warden and guard, and had not been out of his cell for seven years.

Then he got appendicitis. He was taken out of his cell, across an open yard and to the prison hospital for the operation. Attendants said that he enjoyed it more than anything that could happen. Simply to leave his cell on a stretcher was, to him, a tremendous boon.

Perhaps you can understand, from that, just how terrible the daily existence of a lifer must be.

THE TOO-BUSY CORNER.

Retail merchants used to scramble to pay high rental or purchase prices for locations on or near "the busiest corner in town."

Now, however, the tide has turned, according to an article in the current issue of The American Druggist.

This article says that druggists are finding that such locations are less desirable than locations in less busy districts. At the "busiest corner" the motorist cannot find to park while he shops, and the stream of traffic discourages pedestrians from patronizing the store. So the druggists are looking to strategic corners in outlying districts, where patrons can have room to come and go without being crushed in congested traffic.

The article, of course, applies only to drug stores; yet in the steady spread of "neighborhood stores" there is evidence that other merchants, also, are learning the same lesson.

A tobacco company publicly department issues the announcement that tuberculosis has been decreasing in the last 28 years, during which cigaret-smoking increased. Have you noticed, too, how the days are getting longer?

In a straw vote conducted by the American Nature Association to choose a national flower, the violet is running last. The violet stands for modesty.

It was news, of course, when Lindy and Anne crashed, but it seems the big news broke the next day when Lindy took Anne for another ride, and one of his arms was bandaged up.

A movement is on foot to parole a young woman in Ohio who beat her husband to death after he refused to go to a party with her. She has been in prison for several months, which makes it appear her case has been sadly neglected.

A report from Ottawa, Kan., states that no wolves were shot in the big wolf drive this year. That doesn't seem like news, but the story also said one hunter was shot.

A New York bookshop advertised that a film star would be on hand to autograph copies of Joseph Conrad's "The Rescue." There's an idea. Why not whoop up sales of the Bible a little by having Clara Bow sign copies?

Those who went south early enough for the Sharkey-Stribling affair at least got their money's worth of entertainment out of the story of Jack Dempsey being shot at.

A young husband who went to Reno for a divorce the other day charged cruelty. Maybe he married a striking girl.

Wee Clowny watched the cherries run. To him it seemed a heap of fun. "Come back here quick," he shouted. "We have come here just to play. We will not eat you. No tree! I promise that. Leave it to me. I'll see that you're not harmed and we'll all have a lovely day."

One of the cherries stopped and cried. "Oh, we were going to run and hide. But, if you'll promise you'll be nice we'll gladly come right back. You see, most people eat us quick, and that's a very unkind trick. Sometimes they even take us on a long trip in a sack."

"Don't worry, you will shortly find that we are really very kind," replied one of the Tines. Then the cherries joined the bunch. They played around an hour or so before the cherries had to go. Just as they ran off Clowny said, "I'd like one for my lunch."

A squeaking sound then filled the air and Carpy said, "Look over there. That tree trunk's like a teapot and it's tipping to and fro." They promptly scampered right up near and Scouty said, "Well, just look here! This tree is losing syrup. It is dripping out real slow."

And then the teapot-looking tree said: "I'm a maple tree you see. I'm filled up full with syrup that you eat on cakes and such. The syrup's spilling from my spout. Watch close. You'll see it running out. Please, someone, tip me up real straight so I won't lose too much."

"Sure! I will do it," Clowny cried. He climbed right up the queer pot's side and, after working rather hard, he straightened it up fine. "Oh, thank you," said the maple tree. "You've surely been real nice to me. Since I have had your kindness, I will give you some of mine."

(The Maple Tree pays the Tines' back in the next story.)

THE TEACHER
As twigs are inclined so they surely shall grow,
And such is the way with a life.
You cannot bake bread without kneading the dough.
No valor is won without strife.

A mansion erected upon solid rocks,
Has anchorage safe and secure.
A life that is taught how to hamper hard knocks,
Is certainly bound to endure.

Here's where the true teacher administers aid
To lay the foundation of years.
She gives of her best, takes abuse and tirade,
And sometimes finds solace in tears.

When Katie, and Rosie, and Fannie and Nell,
Start off for the first day of school,
The teacher has troubles she cannot foretell,
But kindness and love form her rule.

Then Johnnie and Freddie and Bobbie, and Bill,
Come clattering into the room;
The teacher possesses great patience and skill,
To calm the disasters which loom.

When parents are lax in decorum at home,
The children grow wild in their way;
They saw at the edge of a desk with a comb,
And have not learned how to obey.

The life of the teacher is no jubilee,
She does what some parents neglect;
Then writing and reading and geography,
She teaches with wondrous effect.

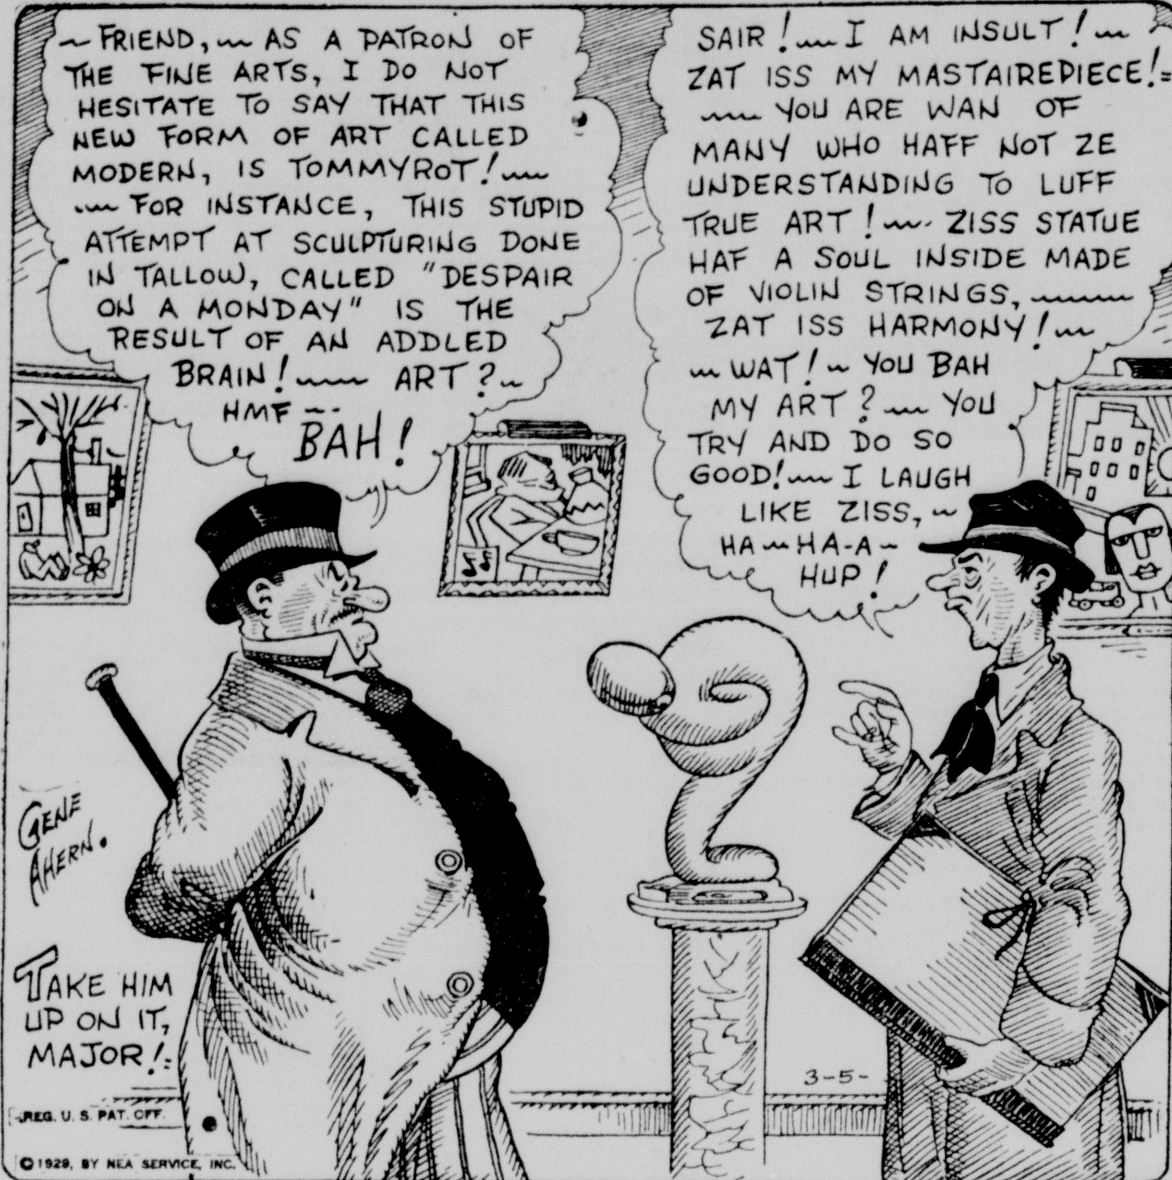

She nurtures the child in the primary class,
Instilling the precepts of truth;
And through all the grades she assists them to pass,
Forgiving the failings of youth.

A sculptor she is of the world's truest type,
Pathetic and willing and kind;
And is to the wide world the one prototype,
Which mouldeth the formative mind.

From small district school to the high school in town,
The teacher is guide all the way;
And then through the college with cap and with gown,

Lenten Thought

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of The Congregationalist

If it is important to hold fast to everything that is good in life, there are other things in life that it is equally important to let go. Nor are these things all outwardly material and sinful.

There are attitudes of life and heart to which we ought to give no place in thought or will. The art of letting go is as great as the art of holding on, and it requires just as much strength to do the one as to do the other.

In my own life I have found great help through a very effective illustration used by Annie Payson Call in her book, "The Freedom of Life," which I came across years ago. Miss Call reminds us that nobody would hang on to a hot poker. If we happen by any chance to take hold of it, we should let go at once.

Yet there are things in life—sins, anxieties, worries—that sear our souls as readily and effectually as a hot poker would sear the body. It is a great thing when our spiritual wisdom and intuition are so strong that almost instinctively we can let go of things that have no power to help us and that have power only to injure.

Don't forget the hot poker. Cultivate the habit of letting go and thinking of a hot poker will help. I know, for I have tried it.

"To stay slender reach for a Lucky Strike instead of a sweet when your sweet-tooth tempts you. I have practised this for years and find it a most effective way of retaining a trim figure. There is something to the toasting process which develops a flavor in Luckies that completely satisfies the desire for sweets. At the same time, toasting takes out the irritants and Luckies never affect the voice."

It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. COMMANDER IS HELD AT FAULT IN ITALIA CRASH

Board of Inquiry Censured General Nobile in Its Report

Rome, Mar. 4.—(AP)—Official blame for the disaster which ended the North Pole flight of the dirigible Italia last May was attached today to General Umberto Nobile, its commander.

Two counts are contained in the report, which was made by the official board of inquiry into the disaster appointed by Premier Benito Mussolini.

The first of these blames Nobile for the crash itself; the second finds no acceptable justification of his letting himself be rescued from the ice first when finally the Swedish aviator Lindborg reached the stranded men. The report contains the highest praise of Captain Alberto Sarracino, pilot, and Captain Filippo Zappi, navigator, whose conduct with the Swede, Finn Malmgren, was the subject of many reports after their rescue.

The report says the wreck of the Italia was due to a "faulty maneuver, the result partly of the composition of the crew and of the way the craft was handled. Responsibility of the maneuver falls on the Italia's commander."

The Italia crashed on the ice north of Spitzbergen on May 25 on its return from a trip over the North Pole. Part of the gas bag with six men aboard was carried away and never heard of since. One was killed in the crash, another died later while eight men were rescued after a month to six weeks on the ice.

Road Amundsen and Rene Guilbaud, French aviator, lost their lives in the attempted rescue of the stranded men.

The ice in Rock river below the dam started moving out Sunday afternoon and from indications, there is much less likelihood of flood water than was anticipated two weeks ago. The ice has not all gone below the dam but several large fields cracked away and floated on down the river without piling up, leaving quite an open space for the remaining field.

The water coming over the dam has raised some and it is expected that the heavy field of ice above the dam may break loose at almost any time and start down stream. With a clear space below the dam, but little damage is anticipated from high waters, or severe ice jams which might result in a flood condition in some parts of the city. The older residents of the city who for years have watched the ice clear in the spring, do not anticipate any unusual trouble because of the thickness of the ice this year. The mild weather of the last few days has honeycombed the ice and weakened it, it is said.

MY THIRTY YEARS AT SEA

By Capt. George Fried

Assistance to vessels in distress has been Fried's fortune on numerous occasions. Many of the devices and results of his experience stood him in stead for momentous rescues later. Here he tells of the time when he, like Chief Officer Manning, effected a life saving after an open sea trip in a life boat.

By CAPT. GEORGE FRIED
(Copyright, 1929, Associated Press)

CHAPTER VIII

The seaman is ever ready to lend a hand to his fellow workers in distress. Race, color or creed are never taken into consideration. When a vessel first reports trouble, all ships in the vicinity communicate to determine which one is closest and which can be of the most assistance. That vessel then proceeds under full steam to the aid of the stricken ship.

During my life at sea there have been a number of occasions when I have been instrumental in giving assistance to others who encountered some unfortunate situations. I was aboard the cruiser Washington, as chief quartermaster, when we were towing torpedo boats on a test cruise from San Diego to the Hawaiian islands and then to the Samoan islands and back again.

While running into some heavy weather out in the Pacific, a destroyer got adrift, the line having snapped. The Washington was maneuvering as closely as possible to the helpless destroyer. We got around to her after shooting several sky rockets with a fishing line attached. The tow line was then pulled aboard and we proceeded.

A similar instance occurred when I was chief quartermaster of the Tonopah, and we went to the assistance of a disabled submarine off Hatteras. We used a long line with a barrel on the end of it. The idea of this was to have the barrel float from the submarine toward the ship so that we could pick it up and get hold of the line, but after several attempts, we gave up this plan.

I then got a big piece of pipe about four feet long and had it inserted in a rocket carrying a long line. After determining the approximate and correct angle, we sent the rocket out on its way, carrying the line, the end of which was fastened to our ship. A rocket always floats to leeward. The fourth rocket landed on the destroyer and the heavy hawser was pulled aboard. Once fastened, the Tonopah started for Norfolk, with the submarine in tow.

One night while aboard the Minneapolis, which was bound from Philadelphia to Havana in 1906 to participate in the pacification of Cuba, the lookout reported that he heard a man shouting help. We were off the coast of Georgia. Word was sent to the bridge and the captain immediately stopped the ship. Searchlights played on the water and finally one of the rays spied the man aloft on a small raft waving his hands frantically.

A life boat was lowered and in a short time the unfortunate victim was taken aboard in an unconscious state. We later learned that he had been on the raft three days. He was suffering from exposure to salt water, hunger and thirst. He was in our ship's hospital for one month before he was physically fit once again to leave. He proved to be the sole survivor of a schooner that had been foundering in a storm.

Just after the war, when I was aboard the President Grant with Captain Rind, I had my first experience to go out in a life boat at sea. A freighter had communicated with us by radio and told us that they had a man aboard who was in a serious condition, suffering from a strained ligament, and both ships proceeded to a predetermined position.

When we got alongside the freighter I decided to take over a motor boat so as to expedite the transfer. Before leaving I wanted to be sure of having plenty of gasoline aboard. The chaplain of our vessel insisted upon accompanying us and we did not get very far before he was seasick, lying at the bottom of the boat. We were trying to make his trip as comfortable as possible when suddenly the motor stopped. Upon examining it, we found that the additional gasoline I had ordered was kerosene. We had to row back with the motor launch to the side of the President Grant. A pulling boat was lowered.

Again we started from the President Grant for the freighter. The man was transferred, and as soon as he was placed in the ship's hospital, the doctor performed an operation which saved his life.

This, as I said, was my first experience in going out in a life boat and proved to be my last, as the next time I figured in a rescue was when I was captain of the President Roosevelt and we answered a call from the British freighter Antioch and rescued 24 of her crew in a heavy storm in mid-Atlantic during January, 1926.

E. St. Louis Druggist Slain by Holdup Men

East St. Louis, March 4.—(AP)—Charles C. Ladrick, 26, was shot and killed in his drug store at 1401 Missouri Avenue last night, apparently resisting a holdup.

James Gallagher, who occupies an apartment above the store, reported he heard two shots and saw two men run from a side door of the drug store. Police concluded that Ladrick drew his revolver when the robbers entered and that after he had been shot the men fled without loot. About $150 in the cash register was undisturbed.

TWO GOOD MOTOR OILS

and ~~~~~

Times have changed!
Faster driving speed—higher compression engines—more congested traffic—have put a heavier load on the engine.

A richer—sturdier lubricating oil is needed—an oil that will stand up no matter how hot the engine must run.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), always geared to anticipate changing conditions, has kept Iso-Vis and Polarine abreast of development. These two good oils are up to the minute—both do a good job.

Polarine is the standard motor oil. It maintains a protective cushioning film of oil between frictional surfaces. Drain your crankcase every 500 miles and refill with fresh Polarine for maximum efficiency and economy.

Iso-Vis is the new type constant viscosity motor oil. It will not thin out. It lubricates thoroughly and constantly the remotest frictional surfaces. It wears and wears and wears. It costs a bit more, but its use makes frequent crankcase changes unnecessary.

Use either of these rich, sturdy oils and your motor will run smoother and last longer.

FARMERS IN RED RIVER VALLEY TO GROW SUGAR BEETS

Discouraged Tillers of Soil Find That Beet Growing Pays

Grand Forks, N. D., (AP)—The gospel of sugar beet raising has been carried to more than 10,000 farmers in the land once known as "the breadbasket of the world."

Increased production of sugar beets has come with emphasis on their value in cleansing weeds from soil used for wheat. One sugar factory's success in the Red river valley has aroused predictions that other such factories soon will be built. The ease with which sugar beets can be raised in this valley of 15,000 square miles already has caused hundreds of farmers to abandon wheat for beet production.

Factories lend further incentive by guaranteeing farmers a definite price and a share in profits if there is a market advance.

Just as the boll weevil brought diversified farming to the south, the Canadian thistle brought sugar beets to the Red river valley. Increased invasion by the weed forced what yields so low grain farming became almost profitless occupation. Many farmers grew discouraged.

In the west the desert leaf-hopper was menacing the sugar beet industry. To escape, beet farmers pushed their operations further east. Beets tricked into the Red River valley. It was too far from the desert for leafhoppers, and the beets flourished in cultivating them. Red river farmers found they had a weapon against their own pest—the tenacious and deep-rooted thistle. After beets, wheat grew better and produced more.

The beet and wheat rotation was good, but wheat had covered the valley like a great golden blanket. It was too expensive to raise beets in the wholesale fashion, and besides, the market would not absorb them. As factories began opening further east, however, valley farmers found limited beet growing profitable. In time some discontinued wheat altogether.

Today there are 102 beet sugar factories in the United States, representing an investment of more than $20,000,000. In 1927 they turned out more than 1,000,000 tons of sugar, valued at $120,000,000. Approximately 800,000 acres of farm land were devoted to beet culture, and farmers were paid between $40,000 and $60,000,000 for their crop.

The fact that beet roots contained sugar was discovered in 1705 by Clever de Serres, famous French agronomist, but the discovery was not exploited. German scientists became interested later, aided financially by Frederick the Great and then by Napoleon III.

Napoleon III credited with starting the beet sugar industry when his war with England cut off France's supply of cane sugar. The emperor sent a commission to Germany to study the manufacture and later ordered French farmers to devote 90,000 acres of land to beet production. He appropriated 1,000,000 francs from the public treasury to help establish factories.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—Hog prices are looking up with the seasonal decline in supplies and prices are likely to advance further. Prairie Farmer's weekly review of agriculture said today. Receipts are declining in seasonable fashion, although unfavorable weather again probably helped to cut down the supply last week. While the worst of the liquidation of feed cattle is probably over, sustained improvement in steer prices may not develop for several weeks yet. Cow and heifer prices are likely to show a forward stride sooner than steer prices.

Wheat prices have made no fresh gains recently, but the upturn of a week ago has been sustained. Weather has continued unfavorable in Europe and India, as well as in the United States and rapid absorption of wheat by importing countries has persisted. New crop prospects will probably furnish the pivotal market news during the next 30 to 60 days. Primary receipts of corn at large terminal markets have been rather liberal. With more corn on farms in the corn belt than a year ago, with fewer hogs to be fed, and prices fairly attractive, the movement of corn into commerce may be fairly liberal so that the accumulation at terminals looks like a rather ample reserve. On the other hand, if the Argentine crop has been badly injured, the export movement may continue greater than usual and be a sustaining factor.

The Farm Week in Washington

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington—(AP)—Agitation for tariff reform has completed its arc and now the pendulum is poised for the backward stroke. Even before it reached the apex of its outward swing, there were farm leaders who privately feared the momentum was a little too much.

More than 1,000 witnesses appeared before the House Ways and Means committee to urge that it write higher import duties into its tariff recommendations to the special session of congress this spring. More than 10,000 typewritten pages of testimony were taken. Not all dealt with agricultural schedules, but enough did to picture the American farmer seeking blanket protection on everything from bananas to livestock.

Conservatives believe it might have been better to limit the demands to those commodities which actually are suffering from foreign competition. They profess to sense a deep significance in the observation made by Senator Reed Smoot of Utah on his return from a conference with Mr. Hoover in Florida, that the fuss over tariff revision probably was all out of proportion to what congress likely would do.

Reaction to tariffs that are described as of little or no benefit to American producers and still sufficient to embroil this country in trade disputes with important foreign customers, is epitomized by the Wall Street Journal in an attack on the requestor a 75-cent duty on each bunch of bananas.

Offset against the annual importation of $30,000,000 worth of bananas from Caribbean countries, the Journal says, is the fact that these countries take from the United States each year $187,000,000 worth of flour, canned goods, lard and such products, and $20,000,000 worth of manufactured goods.

This country, the Journal continues, does not produce bananas and because they are not in competition with a domestic product have been, heretofore, on the free list. They do not compete with fruits grown in this country, the Journal says, because bananas are eaten for their food value and not for their fruit value.

The circumstances surrounding a number of other issues, including the proposed readjustment of tariffs on beef cattle, are different. Farm groups agree that cattlemen are not sufficiently protected to encourage necessary expansion of the beef industry.

They are conscious, however, of protests from Canadian stockmen who have looked to American markets. The corn belt has been a great outlet for their feeder cattle, cattle weighing under 1,000 pounds that are sold from Canadian ranges into the United States for fattening. The tariff on such animals would be raised from 1 1/2 cents a pound to 3 cents. Although it would increase the cost of feeder stock, because American ranges are not producing enough, corn belt farmers are not protesting. They want a higher tariff on corn.

Other questions of policy rise over the proposal to place a tariff on cotton and raise the rates on wheat. By virtue of greatest production, America controls the world cotton market, but the price of American wheat even in the United States, is fixed in Liverpool.

LAST YEAR'S CROP OF BARLEY CAUSE SOME ANNOYANCE

Grain Sold to German Firms Is Infested by Malignant Bacilli

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington—(AP)—With the government still involved in litigation with German importers of American barley grown last year, President Coolidge asked congress for an emergency appropriation of $38,280 to investigate the fusarium blight, or scab disease of the grain, which is blamed for sickness among livestock.

Through the arbitration board of the London Corn Trade association, the state department and Germany are trying to settle disputes over payment for the grain. A test case has been made, on the outcome of which the entire controversy is expected to be settled. A number of points have arisen and now are before English courts. The settlement is to be made under English laws.

The German purchase, involving between 20,000 and 30,000 tons of barley, was made at a contract price of about $1.15 a bushel. Shortly afterward the export price fell to approximately 83 cents. The Germans say the grain is infested by several kinds of malignant bacilli which cause "staggers."

Animals eating it first become listless, gradually lose control of their limbs, and finally become generally paralyzed. Post mortem examinations are said to have established hyperemia, droopy and an assemblage of fluid in the membrane of the cerebellum and in the spine. The symptoms are described as very similar to those observed after cattle have fed on dandelion, a weed containing a poison known as temulin. All three experts have traced in the barley poisons called cholera and phenol, which they say point to fungoid contamination, and affect the intestinal functions.

One dispute to be settled is whether the grain was a part of the No. 2 barley shipped from New York, Baltimore, Boston and Norfolk last September. The Germans say it is, and have placed an embargo on barley from the United States, except that grown in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Colorado. Meanwhile, barley cargoes lie in various German ports under seal. Cattle breeders are afraid to feed it, and the government is anxious not to extend the embargo which was set for expiration February 28.

It is understood that the purpose of the $38,000 appropriation is to conduct federal feed tests in this country to determine what effect scab disease has on livestock. Experiments already are underway at Purdue University, in Indiana, and at the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture. Dr. A. F. Woods, federal director of scientific work, told congress the scab disease is causing heavy losses to barley growers in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Part of the money would be used in tests to see what may be done with the diseased crop.

Fusarium blight, which is largely preventable by proper seed treatment and by careful preparation of a seed bed from which all corn stalks, wheat straw and other refuse are eliminated, appears very noticeably during humid summers.

Wheat Ousts Grazing in Panhandle Prairie

Amarillo, Texas—(AP)—No man's land in the Texas-Oklahoma panhandle has been transformed from cattle-grazing country into a new wheat belt for the southwest.

Vast expanses of range have been divided into tracts of wheat. More than 1,000,000 acres of wheat lands between Amarillo and Liberal, Kas., will find their first outlet by rail this year in a branch line of the Rock Island now under construction between the two points.

Care Keeps Hens Laying All Winter

East Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Contrary to general belief, the shock of zero and subzero weather does not cause hens to quit laying if they are properly housed and fed and brought into production before cold weather starts.

Records on 1,000 hens in the seventh international egg-laying contest at Michigan state college show the hens experienced several severe cold waves in December, January and February, yet their egg production remained fairly constant. During January, the coldest in the history of the contests, 102 non-layers started on resumed laying.

A slight set-back was suffered in February, when the temperature dropped to 22 below zero. A number of White Leghorns quit laying when their combs were frosted, but they rallied quickly under treatment.

Valuable Hints for Farmers and Their Good Wives

(By the U. S. Department of Agriculture)

Good yields of first-class alfalfa cannot be obtained from very old meadows where the stand has become thin, and such meadows should be broken up and planted to some other crop for two or three years before reseeding to alfalfa.

It is possible to increase the protein content of winter wheat one-third or even more by the application of sodium nitrate at time of heading. An application in early spring increases the yield of grain.

A concrete feeding floor for hogs wastes less grain than any other kind. A rise of two inches around the outside will prevent the grain from being pushed off. Slope the platform slightly to facilitate washing and draining, and make the concrete somewhat rough to prevent the hogs from slipping.

One minute after a cow has eaten a pound of garlic or wild onion tops, it will taste in the milk. It is necessary to remove cows from garlic infested pastures from four to seven hours before milking in order that the flavor be entirely eliminated.

Some of the cotrolarias fulfill very satisfactorily the need for a good legume soil improver in the south. The quantity of nitrogen in cotrolaria varies from 83 to 297 pounds an acre. When the growth is turned under after seeds have ripened, the plants decay slowly and supply nitrogen over a longer period than when the plants are turned under young.

Need Million to Rid Texas of Prairie Dogs

San Angelo, Tex.—(AP)—If Texas is freed from the devastating prairie dog, it may take nearly $1,000,000 to do it.

L. C. Whitehead, director of rodent control for the United States biological survey, believes annual appropriations of $49,000 each from the state and general governments for ten years will be necessary to release Texas from the rodent.

CATTLE FEEDER SHOULD RAISE ALL NECESSARY FEEDS

Saving of Freight on Food Would Add to the Yearly Profits

Urbana, Ill., March 5—(AP)—Shifting part of the livestock population from the western to the eastern side of the state is revealed by farm records as one thing needed to put the Illinois farmer in a better position, according to H. O. M. Case, in charge of the farm organization and management department, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Illinois farmers would be better off, the records indicate if some of those in the western part produce more livestock, according to Case. Such a shift would at least save considerable freight on grain and feed, he pointed out. Higher freight rates make it desirable, he explained that farms feeding livestock also grow the necessary crops for balanced feeding.

"Farm business records secured last year from farmers in the livestock sections of western Illinois show that many of them had low incomes, partly at least because of having to buy large quantities of feed. The 1927 crop yields, of corn especially, were below average, and those farmers who had more livestock than they could feed with an average crop found it necessary to buy much feed. Records from a large number of farms in northwestern Illinois show that in three years out of five the bill for feed exceeds the value of the crops sold."

In contrast, many farmers in eastern Illinois get most of their income from the sale of grain. Not enough livestock is kept on some farms even to use waste feed and low grade grain to advantage. Especially in years when grain prices are low as compared with livestock prices, these farms are at a serious disadvantage. After 100 years of farming, the soil of this part of Illinois needs more attention. Livestock and a larger acreage of legumes should play a large part in a plan of soil improvement. At present, livestock prices are more favorable than grain prices.

Records from hundreds of farms during the past 12 years show that, in general, farms with considerable livestock have made more profits than those with little livestock. There are farms, however, that have gone to extremes, making it necessary for them to buy large quantities of feed every year. As a result they have

OGLE CO. BUREAU TO CONTINUE ITS TESTING SERVICE

Four Corn-Culling Meetings Have Been Held in Two Weeks

Ogle County Farm Bureau is again offering its members corn selection and testing service which has proved very advantageous to those who used this service in previous years. Four corn culling demonstration meetings were held during the past two weeks at Haldane, Leaf River, Creston and Kings at which farmers in the vicinity of those places brought in some of their seed corn to get experience in culling out ears susceptible to disease and selecting their best seed for special plots for the improvement of the quality of their seed corn for the next year.

It has been interesting to see how much improvement many of the co-operators in this project have been able to make in their corn in previous years by this method of selection. The average of all of them having increased their yield from four bushels to five bushels per acre and at the same time they have increased the quality as is shown by the smaller percentage of nubbins and soft corn in the amount harvested.

Members of the Farm Bureau who have practiced the culling work and wish to eliminate all diseased ears from the seed used for a special selected plot are given the germinator service which is conducted at the Farm Bureau office.

Each cooperator after selecting his best seed ears takes six kernels from each and sends them in envelopes to the office for germination; not for the purpose of knowing whether they will grow but to find out if these ears are diseased. The report that is sent back to him will tell the cooperator which ears to select for his plot of improved corn.

It is probable this year that there will be conducted in connection with this corn improvement project a Junior Corn Club for boys who will plant at least an acre of corn from selected seed and keep records of the cost of production and the improvement over the ordinary seed used on the farm.

WOLVERINES ARE MORAL CHAMPS OF BIG TEN QUINTETS

Defeated Wisconsin in a Speedy Game Monday Eve at Ann Arbor

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ann Arbor, Mich., Mar. 5.—(AP)—The long scramble for the Big Ten basketball crown is virtually over with Michigan's big team the moral monarch and Wisconsin, the team it twice vanquished, its twin heir apparent from a percentage aspect.

Michigan ascended to its moral pinnacle in the headline battle of the general curtain lowering program last night by swamping Wisconsin 37 to 22 at Yost field house. The victory gave the Wolverines a final record of 10 won and 2 lost. Wisconsin has won 9 and lost 2 and can share the championship by defeating Chicago 1 in the lone finale at Madison Saturday night.

Purdue, which shared the title with Indiana last year, closed its campaign in third place with 9 victories and 3 defeats, by defeating Ohio State 45 to 34 last night, while Northwestern, the upset team of the race, finished fourth with a record of 7 and 5. Ohio State and Illinois were deadlocked for fifth place with a .500 percentage. The other entries were strung out in order, Iowa, Indiana, Chicago and Minnesota.

Dazzling Speed
It was with a white-hot burst of dazzling speed that Michigan routed Wisconsin and its dream of an undisputed championship. After a brilliant, close battle in the first half, which left Michigan ahead 12 to 11, the Wolverines came back with a rush and the famed Badger defense fell apart. Chapman, veteran member of Michigan's "iron man" quintet, and Tharel Knitz, who entered the game when Michigan lost Orwig because of personal fouls, were the big guns in the Wolverine runaway. Michigan held the advantage principally from the top off, gaining possession of the ball three-fourths of the time.

It was Michigan's greatest scoring spurge of the season and 9,500 persons witnessed it.
Branch McCracken led Indiana in its 35 to 30 victory over Iowa in another game last night, scoring 20 points. Thus, Indiana concluded its poorest season in years by winning only four games out of 12, yet scoring identically the same number of points as its opponents, 328.

Illinois showed Minnesota firmly into the conference cellar by defeating the Gophers, 32 to 27 at Champlain. Minnesota has won one game out of 12.

McKain, who won 20 and lost six games with the Decatur club of the Three-Eye League last season, signed a Sox contract yesterday.

Blackburne sent the Sox through four-hours of strenuous workout yesterday. "Red" Faber, the 41-year-old Cascade hurler, and Tommy Thomas, left loose with a few mid-season tosses.

Dixon in Double Defeat Saturday Night at Mendota

The Dixon high school basketball squad suffered double defeat at the hands of Mendota Saturday evening in the final game of the 1929 Rock River conference schedule at Mendota. The heavyweights suffered a 32 to 19 defeat and the lightweights were let down by a score of 31 to 21. Both teams appeared tired from Friday night's games at Sterling when Dixon annexed a double victory. Saturday evening's games gave Dixon fourth place in the conference standing for the year. The teams made an excellent showing, getting away at a poor start, but staging a strong comeback in the middle of the schedule and finishing well up in the first division.

BROWNS MAY TRY ROOKIE AT THIRD EARLY IN SEASON

Manager Howley Encouraged by Experiment Tried Last Year

BY BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

West Palm Beach, Fla., Mar. 5.—(AP)—Manager Dan Howley of the St. Louis Browns believes that what has been done in baseball can be done again. Last season he tossed two untried youngsters into the very heart of his infield and they made good, one brilliantly. Now he is seriously considering repeating the experiment with still another lad who has never heard the roar of big league guns at close range.

Eddie Grimes is the boy. He is a third baseman and batted .334 for Tulsa in the Western League last year. If he gets the assignment Frank O'Rourke will move over to second base, temporarily forcing Otis Brannon to the bench.

The infield will be completed by Lu Blue at first base and Ralph Kress at shortstop. Kress was good last season and will be better this year, says Howley.

Browns are Confident.
The Browns, who finished third in the last campaign are confident they can do better. They base their optimistic predictions on increased reserve strength, likely additions to the pitching staff and a never say die spirit.

Manush, Schulte and McNeely are all ready with Frank McGowan threatening to make a regular place for himself. Wally Schang, still a great catcher in spite of the approach of the baseball goblin "fat and forty," and Clyde Manion will tutor Young Dick Ferrell as the freshman member of the catching staff.

The outstanding pitching recruit is Warren "Rip" Collins, a 32 year old veteran with numerous major league service stripes. The big Texan seems certain to succeed in his comeback effort.

Dick Coffman and Ed Stencel worked less than a dozen games between them in 1928 but every indication points to more activity to come. Alvin Crowder and Sam Gray may not do so well in the new season but Manager Howley hopes he will not have to look to his two aces for averages of .808 and .625 respectively.

Walter Stewart, a promising left hander has put on much needed weight and may justify the expectations of his friends at any time. The only other left hander is Oscar Estrada of Havana, who pitched for Shreveport.

PRESIDENT OF MICH. VARSITY QUELLED RIOT

Students, Joyful Over Team's Victory, Attacked Theater

Ann Arbor, Mich., Mar. 5.—(AP)—Four thousand students celebrated Michigan's basketball victory over Wisconsin last night by attempting to storm their way into the Michigan Theater.

Police tear bombs repelled three attacks, but it was the appearance at the theater of Dr. Clarence Cook Little, University President, that finally dispersed the crowd. Five students were arrested and later released to the custody of Dr. Little.

The students, snake dancing through the streets in a riotous frenzy because the team had just assured Michigan a tie for the Big Ten championship, rushed the doors of the theater, demanding free admittance.

The theater manager called upon stage hands and ushers to repel the rush which followed his refusal of the student demand, and then called police who brought tear bombs. Three times the blinding, choking gas pellets routed the mob, which gradually decreased in numbers to about 500.

Dr. Little, summoned from a formal dinner at his home, spoke briefly but energetically to the crowd and within a few minutes the attack was ended.

After a conference with police and the theatre owner the five students arrested, whose names were not divulged, were released to Dr. Little and rode with him to his home. They were to appear before him today.

Murphy Beats All-Time Scoring Mark

Chicago, March 5.—(AP)—Charles "Stretch" Murphy, Purdue's six-foot-six scoring ace, holds the all-time Western Conference scoring record.

Scoring eight field goals and six free throws against Ohio State at Lafayette last night, Murphy ran his season's total to 143 points, more than the mark of 133 set by Johnny Miner of Ohio State in 1925.

With Glen Harmon feeding the lanky Murphy, "Stretch" scored enough points in the first half to set a new record and then continued in the second period through the loose Ohio State defense.

Murphy has one more year of competition.

ILLINOIS TEAM FAVORITES FOR BIG TEN EVENTS

Illini is Given Chance to Retain Indoor Track Title

Chicago, Mar. 5.—(AP)—The "free-for-all" predicted for the Western Conference indoor track and field meet at the University of Iowa field house next Friday and Saturday may not develop if Illinois keeps up the pace set in its dual meet with Iowa last Saturday.

At least five squads—Illinois, Iowa, Chicago, Wisconsin and Ohio State—were believed to have good chances of winning the 1929 title, but the ease with which Illinois conquered Iowa's supposedly powerful team has made the Illini strong favorites to keep the title they won in 1928.

Coach Harry Gill showed Saturday that he not only has an imposing list of winners but that he is also well fortified to rate second, third and fourth in many events.

In the distance events Illinois will have its greatest strength although Gill's troupe will also be well represented in the middle distances. Approximately 250 athletes will start in the qualifying rounds Friday night.

2.—You can change only one letter at a time.

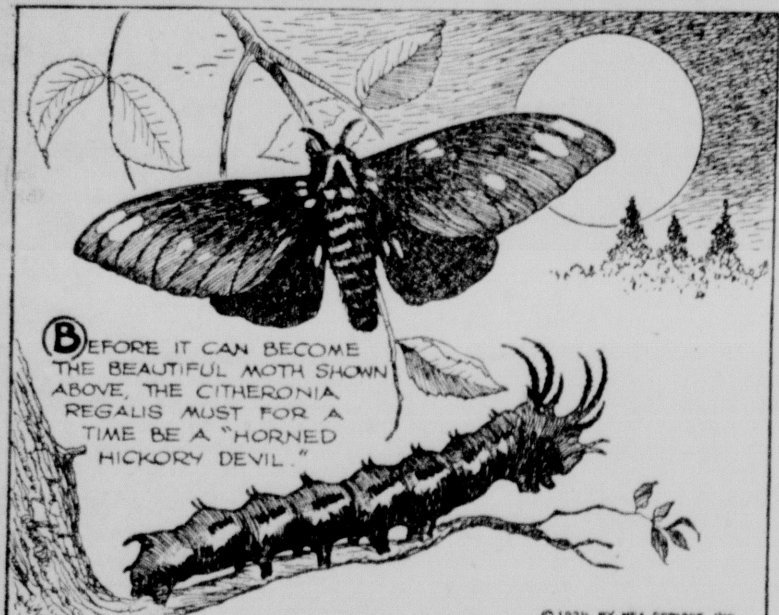

3.—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each pump change words and abbreviations don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

MOTHER NATURE'S CURIO SHOP

A HOME FOR HATS

Every self-respecting closet now-a-days has its quota of garment cases, shoe pockets and personal laundry bags. But hats have so far been sadly neglected. Boxes take up too much room; hat stands topple over and, while protecting the brims, do not keep dirt off the hats. So here is a home especially designed to accommodate the 1929 hat, the little felt and satin clothes so generally accepted by all women.

The hat case shown here takes up little room in the closet, is convenient to use and costs only a very little to make. Furthermore it is collapsible, making it easy to pack for extended traveling.

The materials required are four plain wire rings twelve inches in diameter, one and a half empty flour bags and ten yards of bias tape.

The rings are such as are used on lamp shades and cost but a few cents each, or may be made at home by a handy man with a soldering iron. The flour bags may be bought at any bakery for a few cents more, or you can use those that come with flour for home use. The stamping is first removed either by soaking the inked places in lard or kerosene for a few hours and then washing in warm water, or with javelle water. The goods is then used in its natural color or may be easily dyed.

First cut out four circular pieces to fit the rings and over-sew them to the rings. Then cut a strip of the material 28x28 which will go around the bases, leaving an opening of eight inches. Bind the sides of this strip with the tape and set in the trays by binding them with the tape all the way round, on the outside of the cover. The opening is then covered with a loose flap 9x28 bound into the top ring and also all the way round. A snap fastener is sewed at each corner of the bottom. Sew a strap bound with the tape to the top and suspend the case from a hook in the ceiling of the closet.

While this case as described will hold three hats, one or two additional may be added by increasing the measurements accordingly. Also, 14-inch rings may be used if one runs to larger hats.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

A THOUGHT

High mountains are a feeling, but the heart knows higher, holier heights, where it can rise and mounting to the empyrean of their skies.

Can happy be. O Annie, lofty soul, if she might rise with thee, Her spirit with thy spirit, hand in hand.

Then might she hope Love's Promised Land to see. Content with thee! Forms of love and beauty haunt the shade.

"Forms of love and beauty haunt the shade." Lindy so fairly immersed, over head and ears, in that most sweet delusion "fell into the honey-pot up to his ears" and was "found drowned, dead" beyond the reach of humane society.

Oh! he thinks Anne a piece of perfection—etereal as the rainbow, sparkling like the galaxy, brilliant and bewildering as the northern lights. Oh, well, never mind. Love like electricity, pervades all bodies. It comes before you know it. I can't say exactly what, you know, but certainly something very different from the article in common use nowadays, when hands and hearts go to the highest bidder, and a lover is won.

like a game of chess, by a studied and complicated series of sagacious maneuvers; when marriages are made up like a ship's reckoning or a Newmarket betting book, all figures and calculations; when denouements, elopements and divorces are the fashionable pastime, and wedded people seem to change partners with as much nonchalance as they used to for a quadrille. True, you may say there is a difference of opinion upon this, as upon almost all other subjects. Solomon, the wisest man the world ever saw, thought his seven hundred wives too few; and worthy Job, the most patient man on earth found one a little too much; but these are extreme cases. I suppose the "juste milieu" is yet to be found out; and if we may trust to the many experiments said to be going on around us, it is probably reserved for Yankee shrewdness to solve the problem; and in so doing, to add a fresh laurel leaf to our national glory only inferior to steam engines, lightning rods, serving machines and cucumber slicers. But for my own part, I hold to the opinion of Job.

ADmits FORGERY OF ALLEGED PACT FRANCE-BELGIUM

Clears Clouds of Suspicion Which Endangered All Europe

Brussels, March 4.—(AP)—Confession of forgery today cleared clouds of suspicion which endangered the foundation of European post-war relations. Police, after arresting Albert Frank Heine, described as a great grandson of the famous poet, Heinrich Heine, said he had admitted authorship of the alleged secret military alliance treaty between France and Belgium published in a Utrecht newspaper last week. Frank, as the man is better known, said he had modeled the spurious document on a treaty concluded long before the world war by France and Russia. The Brussels Soir printed an interview today with Frank in which he treated the affair as a joke and boasted of having mystified the world. Conviction will make him liable to 15 years imprisonment for plotting against the national security. Frank's wife, who was arrested with him on the arrival of an express train from Amsterdam yesterday, was released. The spurious treaty was published last week in Utrechtse Dagblad, which said it had established its authenticity beyond any doubt. By its terms France and Belgium agreed to assist each other in the event of a war of either with Germany. The treaty was to be kept secret.

Fergus To Carry His Case to U. S. Courts

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—(AP)—Chicago's fight for "equitable representation" in the Illinois General Assembly will be taken to the United States Supreme Court by John B. Fergus, veteran contender for senatorial reapportionment of the state. Fergus today asked attaches of the Supreme Court of Illinois to prepare the abstract and reference in the latest of his appeals to the state tribunal, for presentation to the United States court. This case was brought against the State Auditor and State Treasurer to prevent payment of salaries to legislators. Fergus contended that the failure of the legislature to comply with the constitutional mandate for reapportionment invalidated all legislation passed by the Assembly including the bill by which their own salaries were appropriated. Both the Sangamon Circuit and the Supreme Court turned back Fergus' case on the grounds that a judicial branch of the state government could not compel the legislative branch to fulfill its duties. Fergus filed his suit against Garrett Def. Kinney, retiring State Treasurer, and State Auditor Oscar Nelson before the present administration took office.

A government decree, establishing compulsory insurance for travelers and livestock carried on Spanish railways became effective November 1, 1928.

DAWES DEFIANT ABOUT RULES TO THE VERY LAST

Good Natured Clash in Senate When Curtis Took the Oath

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—Charles Curtis of Kansas was sworn in as Vice-President of the United States at a ceremony marked by a good natured clash of opinions between himself and his predecessor, Charles G. Dawes. Roaring his defiance to the last, General Dawes brought back memories of four years ago when he denounced the rules under which the Senate was working as antiquated. Curtis, in a good natured talk, reminded the Senate that it made its own methods of procedure. "I take back nothing," Dawes shouted in a strident voice as he rose to administer the oath to the first man from west of the Mississippi River ever to achieve the Vice-Presidency and the first with Indian blood to reach such a high place. Herbert Hoover about to be sworn in as President and Calvin Coolidge, about to retire, joined the other distinguished hosts in the Senate chamber in laughter and applause as first Dawes and then Curtis pronounced contrasting views on the rule allowing unlimited debate in the Senate. As Dawes had his final say he, too, smiled happily over some of his own darts. The sombre Curtis, swarthy and alert after 34 years in public office, in emphasized tones declared the Vice President "is not one of the makers of the law, nor is he consulted about the rules adopted to govern your actions." Again laughter and applause rang out and Mr. Dawes, now sitting down in front of the chamber alongside President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover, joined in heartily.

Periodic Health Examinations Need of Every Citizen

By L. H. Bauer, M. D. Aeronautics Branch, Department of Commerce (This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing necessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Perhaps one of the most important rules for an aviator to follow is that he should keep himself in prime physical condition. Fit to fly today does not necessarily mean fit to fly tomorrow or next week. Systematic exercise is highly important. We find that poor general physical condition due to lack of exercise results in a falling off in alertness, a diminution of judgment, and a flagging efficiency. Reaction becomes slowed, the eyes show defects, such as poor judgment of distance and ocular muscle imbalance and there is a loss of interest in one's work. The flyer then becomes unreliable. Often, indeed, he realizes his own condition as untrustworthy. While perhaps these factors may be less serious in one employed in a ground occupation, they are none the less present and, of course, efficiency is lowered. The first-class aviator realizes the importance of an avocation, of regular exercise and occasional vacations. Another word as to exercise. There are some who seem to think that exercise to be beneficial must be competitive in form. Nothing is further from the truth. The most beneficial types are probably the non-competitive. These types stimulate the physical well-being without adding the effect of nervous tension, which often defeats the purpose of the exercise. Any exercise that becomes a task or that may induce staleness accomplished nothing but adding to a bad situation. Exercise must be enjoyed and unaccompanied by nervous tension to be most beneficial. Such is the type best indicated for aviators. Inasmuch as we are endeavoring to prevent or cure "staleness" in the aviator, by prescribing exercise, the same holds true for the business man. Change and relaxation, brought about in a pleasant environment by fresh air and improvement of muscular tone and circulation, is the goal to be aimed at. Here is another point to be noted by the ordinary citizen—namely, the value of periodic health examinations. It has been found that many minor conditions in the flyer may be detected in this way before they be-

Lindy and Morrums Return to Capital

Mexico City, Mar. 4.—(AP)—Ambassador Morrow, accompanied by Mrs. Morrow, his daughters Anne and Elizabeth, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, his prospective son-in-law, arrived at the American embassy this morning from the Morrow residence at Cuernavaca. Ambassador Morrow had planned to remain at Cuernavaca until tomorrow but news of the outbreak of a revolt caused his decision to return to the Mexican Capital as soon as possible. The party came in two automobiles and while neither had any special guards, had no trouble during the forty mile trip to Mexico City. Col. Lindbergh, still using only his left hand, his right being in a sling ever since his "mishap" of last week, drove one car. He made the trip in an hour and a half which is exceedingly good time. Anne Morrow, his fiancée, and her sister Elizabeth sat beside him in the front seat. Ambassador Morrow was in the second car.
